CERTIFICATE IN LAW

THE LAW ADVANTAGE

Today's knowledge economy is being shaped by analytical, integrated thinkers who can employ different intellectual perspectives, who can forecast change and understand how laws and the regulatory environment will affect the goals and strategies in their fields.

A FOUNDATIONAL UNDERSTANDING OF LAW

You will learn the historical, social and economic forces shaping the law; methods of legal reasoning; how to develop, articulate and justify a position; and how recent domestic and international trends and agreements affect the law.

ABOUT THE CERTIFICATE IN LAW

Designed and optimized for online learning to meet your learning objectives anytime, anywhere.

Courses are taught by Queen's Faculty of Law instructors who are experts in their field and are TA'ed by law students.

The program offers seven courses, each covering a unique aspect of Canadian Law.

The Certificate is comprised of four 3.0-credit (single term) courses (12 credits total).

Current Queen's students can have two courses counted as electives towards your degree program.

Apply as an interest student – no supporting documentation required!

EXPAND YOUR HORIZONS AND SEE IF LEGAL STUDIES ARE RIGHT FOR YOU!

The Certificate in Law is an academic accreditation that will be a permanent part of your academic record, and a testament to a level of knowledge of the law that few people outside of formal legal studies ever attain. It's a competitive job market and anything you can do to distinguish yourself from other applicants will help.
